THY MOTHER.

BY MEALS. H. STROUBNEY, Who, when thise infant life was young Delighted' o'er thy cradle hung? With pity, soothed each childish moun And made thy little griefs her own ? Nor smiled till thou wert well again ! Vbo sorrowed from thy side to part, And bore the absent, or her heart? Thy Mother, boy! How canst thou pay

Her tender care, by night and day? Who joined thy sports with cheerful air ! And joyed to see thee strong and fair! Who, with fond pride, to guest and friend Would still the darling child commend? Whose tears in secret, flowed like rain. If sin or woe thy life did stain? And who, with prayer's unceasing sigh Besought for thee, a house on high? Thy Mother, boy! How canst thou pay Her tireless love, by night and day!

Bear on thy brow the lofty smile Of upright duty, free from guile, With earnest diligence restrain The word, the look, that gives her pain If weary toll her path invade, Come, fund and fearless to her aid. Serve thy young arm her steps to guide,-It fades her cheek, be near her side. And by a life of goodness pay Her care and love, by night and day.

And will care you and your children. They are on timely different from the many preparations now in the country called Bitters or Toutes. They are not tween preparations, or anything like them; but good hourst reliable medicines. They are to a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with runs Santa Crox Runs, Orange, etc. It is used for the same disease as the Bitters, in cases where some pure alcoholic altimulus is required. You will bear in mind that these remedies are entirely different from my others sownless for the case of the diseases named, these being scientific proparations of medical extracts, while the others are mere decocitions of run in a some form. The TONIC is decidedly ase of the most pleasant and agreemble remedies ever offered to the public. It is a pleasure to take it, while its He-giving, exhibarating, and medicinal qualities have caused it to be known as the greatest of all tonics.

Wesk and Delicate Children are Made Strong ever known, and will care all discuses resulting from back blood. Here your blood para; keep you liver in order; keep your discotive organs in a sound, bealthy condition, by the use of these remedies, and no dis-ease will ever assail you. The best men in the com-try recommend them. If years of honest reputation go for anything you must try these preparations.
